The Coronavirus National Testing Programme

The coronavirus pandemic presents a critical national challenge and testing for the virus is a central part of the Government's response. One of the most challenging things about coronavirus is the uncertainty. Good-quality testing can help provide us with greater certainty. It's a big part of how we're going to defeat this disease.

Our response so far:

As part of the government's 5-pillar strategy for coronavirus testing, we are testing essential workers who have coronavirus-like symptoms to see if they currently have the virus. Our aim is that anyone who needs such a test will be able to have one.

We are establishing a nation-wide network of drive-through regional testing sites, which eligible essential workers are able to use. We are also in the process of rolling out a limited number of home test deliveries.

Self Referral Portal:

From today we are launching a new self referral portal here www.gov.uk/coronavirus essential workers will be able to register and book a test for themselves and/ or their household member(s) if they have coronavirus-like symptoms.

There are two ways to get a test:

- 1) Book an appointment at a regional testing site
- 2) Request a home delivery test

What is the self referral portal?

- The self referral portal allows essential workers who are self-isolating either because they or member(s) of their household have coronavirus-like symptoms, to register to be tested.
- It is a secure portal for essential workers to register their details and book a coronavirus test. There are two ways to get a test:
  - 1) Regional testing site
  - 2) Home delivery
- Initially, numbers will be limited for the home delivery route. This will increase over the next few weeks.

How will self referral work for regional testing sites?

The following steps outline how essential workers and their household member(s) can arrange a coronavirus test at a regional testing site:

1. The essential worker will click on the link and register either their details (if they have symptoms) or household member(s) with coronavirus-like symptoms. The essential worker or household member(s) will be added to a list and depending on capacity at regional testing sites, will be invited to book an appointment for a test.
2. The individual(s) being tested will receive a text message inviting them to book an appointment. The text message will contain a link to the appointment booking system and a unique 16 digit code.
3. The individual will click on the text message link and be directed to the appointment booking system where they will be asked to enter their unique 16 digit code. They will then be able to book a specific appointment for a coronavirus test at a regional testing site.
4. The individual will receive a confirmation of their appointment via text message and email. These will contain a QR code, which will need to be shown to security at the regional testing site. Only one QR code is required, either on a smartphone or a printed copy of the email.

How will self referral work for home testing?

The following steps outline how essential workers and their household members can arrange for a coronavirus test(s) to be delivered to their home

1. The essential worker will click on the link and register their details, via the online self referral portal. These details will be used to verify the identity of the essential worker before they order their test(s) for delivery. If the essential worker has access to their work email they should use this to support with the verification process.
2. The essential worker will then receive an email with a one-time code. If the email address cannot be verified we will need them to complete a short verification check through TransUnion. Alternatively, the essential worker can choose to apply for a test at a drive-through centre.
3. The essential worker will then be able to request up to five tests for members of their household displaying symptoms of the coronavirus. Order details should then be reviewed and confirmed.
4. The individual will receive a confirmation of their order by email, as well as details of what to do next. Tracking details for their delivery will also be provided. Once the individual receives their test kit they should follow the instructions provided.

Below this, there is text explaining that key workers who are self-isolating can now apply for a test. It lists conditions for a negative test result (not currently having the virus and safely returning to work) and a positive result (cannot return to work and must self-isolate). A link is provided for NHS advice on self-isolation. Further down, it asks the user to follow next steps to check eligibility. At the bottom, there is a "Start now" button with a right-pointing arrow, which is circled in red.

Please read the information provided on the self referral portal landing page.

Click 'Start now' to continue to registration.

The screenshot shows the "Check if you can have a coronavirus test" page. It includes a "Back" link at the top left. The main heading is "Check if you can have a coronavirus test". Below this, it states that users can only apply if they are key workers who are self-isolating. It lists two reasons for eligibility: having symptoms or living with someone who has symptoms. It also states that non-key workers should not apply. A link "Am I a key worker?" is provided. At the bottom, there is an "OK, I qualify" button, which is circled in red.

Check to see if you or your household member(s) are eligible for taking a coronavirus test.

Click 'Ok, I qualify' to continue to registration.

Key workers: book a test

You're invited to book a coronavirus (COVID-19) test. This is because we believe you're a key worker who is self-isolating (not able to leave home).

The test is only for people who have symptoms of coronavirus – whether that's you, or someone you live with. It involves taking a swab sample from your nose and throat.

While you wait for your results, you (and anyone you live with) must continue to self-isolate. Read NHS advice about how long to self-isolate.

If your test result turns out to be negative, you can safely return to work, as long as:

- you are well enough
- you have not had a high temperature for 48 hours
- anyone you live with also tests negative

If you test positive, or someone you live with tests positive, you cannot return to work. You'll need to continue to self-isolate.

If your condition gets worse, or you do not get better after 7 days, use the NHS 111 online coronavirus service. Only call 111 if you cannot get help online. For a medical emergency dial 999.

You'll have the test at a drive-through test centre. This means you'll need to drive there (a household member can drive you, if necessary). If this is not possible, get in touch with your NHS Trust or employer.

If you live with other people who also have coronavirus symptoms, they should join you for testing. You'll need to include their details on this form.

Read the information on the appointment booking page. Check you understand:

- Who is eligible for a test
- What happens at a regional testing site
- The information that you need to complete your appointment booking

Key Worker Coronavirus home testing

Home Test Kit(s) ordered

We've sent you a confirmation email

Thank you for registering to take a COVID-19 Home Test.

We know that if you or a member of your household has developed COVID-19 symptoms, it will be a worrying time. The Government is introducing COVID-19 Home Testing to help key workers such as yourself understand whether you, or a member of your household, has COVID-19, and then make informed decisions on your health and when to return to work.

We want to reassure you that the test(s) being delivered to your home are:

- Safe – fully clinically validated and approved by the NHS;
- Accurate – providing the same results you would get if you were tested in hospital; and
- Convenient – delivered straight to your door, and collected the next day by courier (which the instructions will tell you how to book).

If, at any stage over the next few days, you, or a member of your household, cannot cope with the symptoms, your condition gets worse, or your symptoms do not get better after 7 days, use the NHS 111 online COVID-19 service. If you do not have internet access, call NHS 111. In a medical emergency, dial 999.

The essential worker will be presented with a confirmation of their order

Once completed, we will send a confirmation email including details on next steps

We will also send a separate e-mail containing tracking information for the order

Please take note of the instructions on the confirmation page.

It is important to read carefully the detailed instructions included in the home test kit(s) when it arrives

To meet the testing criteria you must either be:

- An individual (adult or child) with coronavirus symptoms living in the same household as a essential worker

OR

- An essential worker, with coronavirus symptoms.

In addition, you should be in the first three days of the onset of your coronavirus symptoms at the time the swab is taken - although testing is considered effective up until day five.

No testing should be undertaken after day five, unless it's for a specific reason agreed on a case by case basis by local microbiologists.
